Prozorro is a two-level hybrid system consisting of a central procurement database and 12 commercial electronic marketplaces.

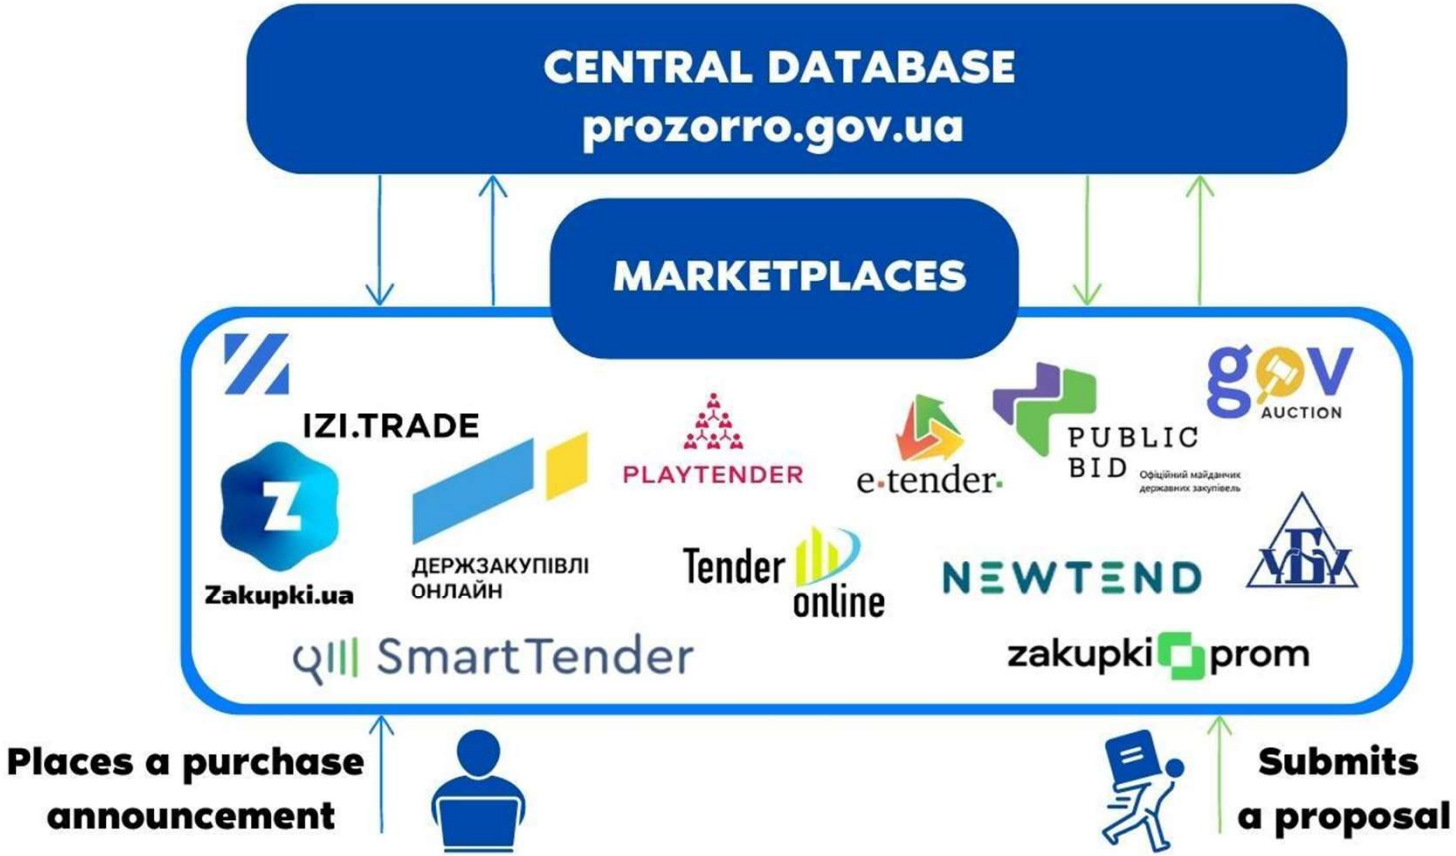
Public authorities organize public procurement through them, as well as suppliers are submitting their offers.

This approach has many advantages:

- The state focuses on the development of the system itself, while private business provides the user interface and customer support.

- Both customers and participants can choose any marketplace or use several of them.

- An extensive system of authorized marketplaces makes it impossible for the system administrator to manipulate data.



The information received by the marketplaces goes to the central Prozorro database and appears on the prozorro.gov.ua portal
